

Dixie Fire Collaborative, Report to the Plumas County Board of Supervisors
July 7, 2023

Progress in Greenville is moving forward in fits and starts. Projects seem to start with great energy and then stall and start again. Part of that is due to PG&E settlements that are taking longer than expected, partly it is supply issues and scheduling busy contractors, and part of it is just life getting in the way of people's best laid plans.

The big focus this week is Gold Diggers Day, which will take place this coming Saturday, the 15th. The traditional parade will kick it off and there will be various activities throughout the day. The Dixie Fire Collaborative normally holds its monthly community meeting on the third Saturday of the month. This month it will provide that information with booths at the Spot on Gold Diggers Day. You are all invited, and be sure to join us for line dancing in the evening.

We continue to hold monthly community picnics. The next one will take place this Sunday at the Community Park, starting at 4:00.

The loss of Region Burger and Mary's German Food left a big hole in the Spot. The good news is that we are now looking forward to the Lunch Box opening soon where Region Burger was and Mary is planning to return with her German food on a limited basis.

The Indian Valley Innovation Hub is getting ready launch the Made in Plumas program to promote products produced locally. You'll see their booth at the fair, and they are working on a distribution program to help local businesses market their products to a wider area.

As usual, there are plenty of meetings and lots of planning going on as we move forward with recovering and rebuilding.
