Plumas County Moves to the Orange Tier

Effective today, Plumas County will be moving to a less restrictive tier, the Orange Tier. On February 16, 2021, Plumas County moved from Purple Tier to the less restrictive Red Tier. In August, the state adopted Blueprint for a Safer Economy Plan, which replaced the state's county data monitoring plan. The blueprint is a four tiered system:

- Purple (Widespread COVID-19 transmission): Most restrictive
- Red (Substantial)
- Orange (Moderate)
- Yellow (Minimal): Least restrictive

Due to the continued mitigating practices used by residents, the continued testing for and containment of COVID-19, and vaccination of residents, Plumas County is moving from Red Tier to Orange Tier. This is a positive step for Plumas County as it is less restrictive with many local businesses being able to open for indoor services with more capacity.

Some of the changes related to the Orange Tier are as follows:

- Retail: Open Indoors with modifications: No capacity restrictions
- Places of Worship: Open indoors with modifications: Max 50% capacity
- Gyms/ Fitness Center: Open indoors with modifications: Max 25% capacity and +Climbing walls
- Restaurants: Open indoors with modifications: Max 50% capacity or 200 people, whichever is fewer
- Movie Theatres: Open indoors with modification: 50% capacity or 200 people, whichever is fewer
- Offices: Open indoor with modifications: Encourage telework
- Bars (No food service): Open outdoors with modifications

Even though Plumas County has moved from Red to Orange Tier and our overall cases of COVID-19 have decreased; it is still critical everyone continue to practice the following mitigating actions: wear face coverings while in public places or while interacting with others not in your household, frequent hand washing, physical distancing, avoiding social gatherings with those not from your household and get vaccinated once it is your turn. Thank you, Plumas County, for your continued patience and commitment to slowing the spread and saving lives.
